Wastewater testing in South Australia has returned evidence of coronavirus at two treatment plants. SA Health said one positive sample came back at Bolivar - which has a catchment of 700,000 properties including the Adelaide CBD, where patients with the virus have been housed in hotels. A second positive was delivered at Angaston in the Barossa Valley, which serves about 2,000 properties. "This is really a reminder that covid hasn't disappeared from our state," Prof. One new case in SA has been confirmed in a woman in her 20s - a Victorian resident who was transiting through Adelaide Airport to Alice Springs but remains in South Australia. SatSaturday 5 SepSeptember 2020 at 5:58amSatSaturday 5 SepSeptember 2020 at 5:58am. By Jessica Riga. Australian PM heckled by angry residents about bushfires. Replay. More Videos MUST WATCH. (16 Videos). Australian PM heckled by angry residents about bushfires. This is the third time NSW has declared a state of emergency in as many months -- the last two times, in November and December, were also for seven days, and granted extraordinary powers to the Rural Fire Service. Berejiklian said residents could also be subject to forced evacuations, road closures and any other means necessary to keep people safe.
