The Houses of Colonial Georgia

John P. Corry

The Georgia Historical Quarterly

Vol. 14, No. 3 (SEPTEMBER, 1930), pp. 181-201 (21 pages)

Published By: Georgia Historical Society

https://www.jstor.org/stable/40576053

Cite this Item

Read and download
Log in through your school or library

Journal Information
The Georgia Historical Quarterly is one of the premier state historical journals in the United States, published quarterly by the Georgia Historical Society. The Quarterly publishes the finest scholarly articles on Georgia history and book reviews dealing with all aspects of southern and Georgia history. The Georgia Historical Society has published the Quarterly since 1917. It has been recognized by the governor of Georgia with a Governor's Award in the Humanities. The Georgia Historical Quarterly is received by all members of the Georgia Historical Society, as well as almost 1,000 university, college, and public libraries, historical societies, and other educational and governmental institutions.

Publisher Information
Georgia Historical Society (GHS) is the premier independent statewide institution responsible for collecting, examining, and teaching Georgia history. GHS houses the oldest and most distinguished collection of materials related exclusively to Georgia history in the nation. Chartered by the Georgia General Assembly in 1839, the Georgia Historical Society is the state’s oldest cultural organization and first and only statewide historical society. GHS preserves and interprets Georgia history and the state’s role in American history through a variety of educational programs, publications, and research services. It publishes the award-winning Georgia Historical Quarterly (Georgia’s journal of record since 1917), maintains a library and archives, manages the Historical Marker Program for the State of Georgia, and presents the annual Georgia History Festival. Headquartered in Savannah with an office in Atlanta, GHS has over 6,000 members and nearly 200 affiliates in 80 counties.

Rights & Usage
This item is part of JSTOR collection
For terms and use, please refer to our Terms and Conditions
The Georgia Historical Quarterly © 1930 Georgia Historical Society
Request Permissions
Browse cool Georgian house plans today! We offer small homes, mid-size designs and mansion floor plans with Georgian colonial architecture and modern amenities. Get expert advice from the house plans industry leader. What questions do you have? When do you want to start construction? - Select - 0-3 months 3-6 months 6-12 months More than one year Need to sell house. Do you have a lot? - Select - No Yes In Process Multiple Lots. Larger than other Colonial house plans, Georgian homes are most suited for generous lots. Symmetrical double-hung windows and brick or stone chimneys on the exterior hint at the stately symmetry of the expansive rooms inside. The centrally placed front entry captures the style's tasteful elegance. The paneled front doors, sometimes doubled, are flanked by columns or pilasters. A transom window overhead completes the inviting look. The moderately pitched roof of the Georgian home plan has little overhang and often includes gabled dormers. Symmetrical double-hung windows. Generous layouts.